

New faculty access

Good news from the Johns Hopkins Office of Technology Transfer. Effective immediately, you can access our data system to see your own invention disclosures, technology cases, protection filings and associated agreements. We have set up this faculty portal so that you can access it through in Internet, so long as you are on campus and have an active invention recorded in the system. Your Johns Hopkins logon username and password will get you into our system. We also have an on-line user guide and linkage through both the Johns Hopkins web site (www.jhu.edu). Select the "Faculty and Staff" link and then scroll down and select "Johns Hopkins Technology Transfer".

We have been working on this for several years and are very excited to provide this capability to you. If you have any questions, please direct them to our Information Systems Manager, Alan Mullenax, at amullena@jhmi.edu. We will be happy to assist you however we can.

Sincerely,

Wes Blakeslee
